Soviet Asks Ike Plan Go To Top Level

Arctic Area Check Stated For Debate Before UN Council

BULLETIN

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today dismissed as "a matter of sheer publicity" President Eisenhower's proposal for international inspection of the Arctic.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed today that President Eisenhower's plan for an Arctic military inspection zone be referred to a summit meeting for discussion.

The Soviet proposal was laid before the U.S. Security Council as it prepared to take up the Eisenhower plan to guard against surprise attack in the northern region.

The Soviet resolution repeated earlier charges that U.S. bomber flights in the Arctic are a threat to the Soviet Union. Both the question of the flights and of the inspection zone, it said, should be referred to a meeting of the heads of government.

Hope To Head Off Veto

The Council was expected to plunge into a full debate of the U.S. proposal despite Soviet objections to taking it up at this time.

The United States hoped to head off a Soviet veto by taking a flexible and conciliatory attitude with regard to the final terms of the inspection proposal.

The Soviet resolution called on the United States to refrain from sending its military aircraft "carrying atomic and hydrogen bombs" towards the frontiers of other states for the purpose of creating a threat to their security or staging military demonstrations.

This provision was similar to that in a resolution which the Soviet Union withdrew Monday after it had run into solid opposition.

Adoption of the new resolution would have the effect of giving the Council's endorsement to a summit conference without noting the Western insistence that such a meeting should be held only after advance preparations are made.

All members of the 11-nation Council except the Soviet Union were reported backing the U.S. plan and anxious to open a thorough debate soon after convening this morning.

Soviet sources indicated Ambassador Arkady A. Sobolev would protest vigorously against a U.N. discussion on any phase of disarmament. The Russians have insisted that the only proper forum for such discussion at this time would be a summit meeting.

Nippon Lawyer Takes Ashes Of War Criminals

TOKYO (AP) — A lawyer announced today he stole the ashes of seven Japanese major war criminals hanged in 1948. He is bringing them out of hiding to put them in a tomb to be inscribed "tomb of seven Samurai who died for the nation."

Shohei Sammonji, one of the two Japanese lawyers who defended G.I. William S. Girard in his Japanese manslaughter trial last year, made his disclosure at a party for other major war criminals whose life sentences were recently reduced to the 10 years they had served.

Lawyer Charges U. S. Unions Greater Threat Than Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York attorney told the U. S. Chamber of Commerce today labor union power is "a more immediate threat to our way of life than the military might of Soviet Russia." Theodore R. Iserman, attorney who specializes in labor-management relations, said in remarks prepared for the Chamber's annual meeting: "The Mine Workers, the Steelworkers, the Auto Workers and dozens of others have strangleholds on the industry whose employees they represent, and through those industries can bring our country to the brink of disaster, as they have done labor leaders' economic power.

Winds Delay Mass Leap By 'Sky Troops'

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — Weathered-in air bases and 15 mile-an-hour surface winds here today kept more than 2,500 paratroopers from salvaging even a practice jump from canceled Exercise Eagle Wing.

Treacherous ground winds, discovered in a test jump by Maj. Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, cut short the 5,000-man drop Monday and ended the exercise with half that number already in the air.

The remainder of the men of the 101st Airborne Division, still at scattered launching bases when their commander called off the war games, were to begin arriving at dawn and land by parachute in a training jump rather than by airplane.

Maj. L. A. Breaud said the planes were unable to take off today as planned, and so far ground winds at the base were too high for jumping if the planes should arrive overhead. He said there was a remote possibility of a training jump late this afternoon by some members of the 51st Battle Group from planes flying out of Stewart AFB, near Nashville, Tenn.

Westmoreland hit the silk ahead of the mass mock-combat maneuver to avoid a recurrence of Wednesday's tragedy when five of his men were killed and 155 injured by winds that dragged the paratroopers across rough terrain and slammed them into rocks and trees.

Cuba Revolt Still Rages

HAVANA (AP) — Fighting continued in Cuba's rebellious Oriente province Monday night as government forces engaged an insurgent band in the Jotura sector, killing eight. The Army said three loyalists were wounded in the clash.

An army communiqué said the main group of rebel leader Fidel Castro's force in the Sierra Maestra range has little chance of breaking through the encircling forces of President Fulgencio Batista.

Dispatches from Oriente said rebels clashed earlier Monday with troops in five villages north-east of Santiago.

Mental Disease Can Be Spotted In Baby Actions

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Schizophrenia, the mental disease of split personality, can begin to show in children only 3 or 4 months old, and preliminary treatment can be started through the parents, a Los Angeles psychiatrist said today.

The earliest outward symptoms, he said, are a kind of withdrawal from contact with others and a tendency to fly into tantrums if his fixed pattern of playing is disturbed.

Treatment at this stage calls for re-education of both mother and child, he added. The mother needs to be shown how to give attention and affection and the child has to be made receptive to the parental efforts.

Sleuths Find 'Nose Knows'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Police didn't need bloodhounds to catch a pair of youths accused of breaking into a shack and stealing $400 worth of smoked meat. The officers used their own noses.

County Detectives Earl Morgan and Orville Jones said the youths smelled like smoked meat. Questioned, they admitted the theft.

Texas Storms Cause Floods, Damage High

DALLAS (AP) — Marauding thunderstorms, some accompanied by hail, struck again across north and east Texas last night, leaving flooding streams and damage in their wake. A tornado destroyed several homes near Comanche.

Mrs. Bill McKay, wife of a Comanche sheriff's deputy, said a twister ripped through the small farming community of Downing, about 12 miles north of Comanche. She said it "blew away several houses — I don't know exactly how many." Mrs. McKay said she heard of no injuries. Sheriff's officers investigated.

Heavy hail pounded Gainesville in north Texas. Neon tubing, windows, and roofs suffered extensive damage in the city. Rainfall of 1.2 inches fell within the hour. The Trinity flooded in north central Texas, breaking through levees in three places near Dallas, but the city itself was safe from floods.

Famed Trapeze Artist Badly Hurt In Plunge

STOCKHOLM (AP) — An audience of 3,500 stared horrified Monday as Pimko del Oro, world-famous trapeze artist, plunged to the ground during a performance. She suffered a skull fracture and other severe injuries, but doctors said she would live.

Ford, GMC Reject Auto Price Cutting

BULLETIN

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. served a termination notice today on the United Auto Workers Union. The notice is effective at midnight May 29, when the current 3-year contract expires.

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. have given Walter P. Reuther an emphatic no to his proposal to put off until September a showdown in bargaining on new labor contracts.

Chrysler Corp. is expected to make it unanimous. The United Auto Workers Union Monday asked the big three car makers for a three-months extension of present contracts, which run out at the end of May.

Reuther said his motive was to allow time for a gigantic clearance sale to help the car makers market $50,000 unsold new cars. He suggested the manufacturers cut prices. The union, he said, would give up a 6 cents an hour productivity increase June 1 but would insist upon retaining cost-of-living increases and layoff pay benefits during the summer months.

General Motors and Ford accused Reuther of stalling in an attempt to improve his bargaining position by withholding threat of a strike until the companies start production of 1959 models.

GOP Group Talks With Eisenhower

Democrats Assert Demands For Cuts Have Been Rising

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower reviews the economic situation with Republican leaders today amid signs renewed pressure is building up in Congress to cut taxes.

Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Anderson have stood firmly against any tax reductions up to now, but no firm decision on future action has been reached.

With organized labor renewing its demands for tax relief and the administration leaving itself in a position to decide either way, influential Democrats said they are getting new pressure to do something quickly in this field.

Says Economists Switched

As an example, one highly placed Democrat said economists who have been advising him have shifted in the last two weeks from advocacy of a public works program to support for general tax reductions to bolster employment.

Because corporation and some excise rates otherwise would decline on June 30, Congress must wrestle with a tax bill of some kind before that date. But there have been indications from House members that a final decision may be postponed until July. The House originates tax bills.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) and Humphrey (D-Minn.) said the June tax bill ought to be made the vehicle for selective tax cutting, if action is to be delayed even that long. Sen. Carlson (R-Kan.) said he is willing to postpone until May 15 but no later, a decision on whether there shall be reductions.

All three senators agreed in general with President George Meany of the AFL-CIO that anti-recession bills passed thus far by Congress will not have any immediate large-scale effect on unemployment.

CED Says Tax Slash Likely To Be In Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Committee for Economic Development said today an income tax cut will be in order if employment and business activity decline in April before March levels. It recommended a temporary 20 per cent across-the-board reduction in individual tax rates expiring March 31, 1959, to provide a seven billion dollar stimulus to consumer purchasing power if tax reduction becomes necessary.

CED's views were contained in a statement by Alfred C. Neal, president, delivered in his absence to the House Banking Committee by CED research officials Herbert Stein of Washington, and Robert Ryan of New York.

CED is a privately supported organization of businessmen and educators. Neal said the recession "has by no means reached alarming proportions," but that it is necessary to establish a floor for the economy before the recession reaches a dangerous point.

Cash Concealed Beneath TV Set Found By Child

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Something was sticking out from under the table-top TV set at his house here, and 6-year-old Michael Gray saw it.

He got out a pair of scissors and started prying. His find was $100 bills and 6 of them are still missing.

Michael's grandmother, Mrs. Anna B. Gray, 59, told police her son, a hospitalized veteran of Korea, had hidden the 10 bills and no one in the family knew where they were until Michael's discovery.

One bill was found in Michael's possession and three others he gave to a friend. When grandma learned of the giveaway, she called police.

Firm Plans Furlough

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — The Vanadium Corp. of America plant, which employed 700 a year ago, will close the last of 17 furnaces Thursday and lay off 70 of the 110 remaining workers.

House Group Hearings Set On Labor Act

Senate Approves Pension, Welfare Control Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed a pension-welfare fund control bill 88-0 last night but generated enough heat in five days of debate to keep the political pot boiling the rest of this session.

Indications today were that the House Labor Committee will hold hearings on the bill with prospects there uncertain. The House already has 15 bills on the subject including one identical to the Senate measure.

The Senate finally achieved a unanimous vote for the bill after Republicans denounced it as too weak and Democrats defended it as a strong protection for 85 million Americans covered by pension and welfare funds.

Until the final roll call, Republicans fought unsuccessfully to broaden the bill into a general labor reform measure.

Fourteen amendments they offered, covering a wide range from proposals designed to assure union democracy to efforts to make major changes in the Taft-Hartley law, were defeated. A coalition of all Democrats except Sen. Lausche (D-Ohio) plus about a dozen Republicans turned them back.

Only one amendment was adopted. It was a proposal by Sen. Mundt (R-SD) to make it illegal for a person convicted of a felony to serve as officer, trustee, custodian or employee of a pension or welfare fund.

The bill, which was a part of the Eisenhower administration's 1958 labor program, seeks to protect employees covered by the benefit funds through full disclosure of their operations.

It would require registration with the secretary of labor and detailed public accounting of operations of each fund. For the first time, federal criminal penalties are set up for embezzling or stealing any of the moneys, or taking kickbacks in connection with a fund, as well as for false reporting to the government.

Britain Sees Secret Swap

LONDON (AP) — Current H-bomb tests in the central Pacific may be Britain's last if the United States agrees to pool nuclear secrets, government sources said today.

"Britain and America probably would move toward joint tests in that event," a British Defense Ministry spokesman said.

He stressed, however, that it depends entirely on whether Congress approves President Eisenhower's plan for sharing nuclear information.

Bishop Decries Church Reopen

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rt. Rev. James P. DeWolfe, bishop of Long Island, has ordered the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, Brooklyn, reopened for religious services next Sunday.

The strife-torn church has been closed by the bishop since last July pending legal and ecclesiastical battles over the ouster of the Rev. William Howard Melish as rector and the validity of the Rev. Dr. Herman S. Sidener's election as his replacement.

Fizzles In Flight

Navy Says Vanguard Gained Information

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Navy has announced a schedule calling for a Vanguard launching a month for the next several months.

And in future Vanguard shoots, where the launching of a satellite will be the prime concern, the potential moonlet's complex instruments will be different in each case.

The Navy says this will provide the opportunity for gathering a greater amount of useful data from outer space.

The Navy's latest Vanguard rocket satellite rocket got off to a flashy start Monday night but fizzled in flight and splashed into the Atlantic Ocean.

It carried a 20-inch sphere equipped with delicate instruments to study X rays shooting from the sun. The Navy says it did gain some important information from the abortive flight.

The Navy reported 20 minutes after the successful launching that the third stage of the vehicle — powered by a solid fuel propellant — failed to ignite. Vanguard never came close to the 18,000 m.p.h. velocity necessary to boost a satellite into orbit.

Up to this time — through four previous firings of the temperamental missile — the first and second stages, powered by liquid fuels, were the biggest Navy headaches.

It was reported that the first two stages performed flawlessly this time.

The first Vanguard satellite, the second of three moons fired into orbit, currently is circling the earth in an egg-shaped arc.

Jet Pilot Almost Avoided Tragic Crash In Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The pilot of a jet fighter which collided April 21 with a big airliner made a frantic effort to bank clear and almost made it.

A few yards more and the jet would have skimmed past the United Air Lines DC7, Civil Aeronautics Board investigators said. The wreckage of the planes showed that the jet slashed into the wingtip of the liner.

It sheared off about eight feet of the DC7's right wing—enough to send it spinning into the desert out of control. Part of the jet's wing was found inside the transport's wing.

Britain's Teen Crime Increase Stirs Alarm

'Screaming Eagles' Led By Youngest General

By GAVIN SCOTT
FT. CAMPBELL, Ky.—The Army's youngest two-star general is a man with a singleminded determination — to have his paratroopers ready to fight anywhere at any time.

"Our middle name is readiness," Maj. Gen. W. C. Westmoreland says, and his quiet voice gives no hint of boasting. At 44, he commands the nation's first division specially organized for atomic war, the 101st Airborne Pentomic Division.

He took over the famed "Screaming Eagles" just two weeks before Wednesday's tragedy when five paratroopers were killed and 135 were injured in a mass jump here. The victims were whipped off the drop zone by sudden wind gusts.

The accident occurred during a two-week operation designed to test the ability of an airborne division to disengage from battle, repair its equipment, redeploy and attack at a distant point within a week.

Westmoreland is a handsome, muscular West Pointer, with a receding hairline and a touch of gray about the temples. Standing just over six feet, he talks with a soft-spoken drawl. He likes Kabak, had threatened her and she trailed her by car for three weeks before she was killed.

Police Seeking Doctor Accused As Nurse Killer

NEW YORK — A Filipino doctor, wanted in the knife slaying of a blonde Brooklyn nurse, went to St. Patrick's Cathedral Sunday night and asked a priest to hear his confession, police disclosed.

The priest, whose name was not given, agreed and went to get his ceremonial stole. When he returned the doctor had fled.

A 15-state police alarm is out for Dr. Rodrigo L. Sarmiento, 38, in the butcher-knife killing Saturday of 33-year-old Margaret Kabak.

Earlier, police disclosed that gray about the temples. Standing just over six feet, he talks with a soft-spoken drawl. He likes Kabak, had threatened her and she trailed her by car for three weeks before she was killed.

Retail Farm Prices Rise

WASHINGTON — The Agriculture Department reported today that retail prices of farm-produced food averaged 7 per cent higher in the first quarter of 1957 than in the same period of 1957.

The agency traced most of this increase to the farm. That is, it said advances in prices received by farmers accounted for 70 per cent of the increase and marketing charges for 30 per cent.

Higher prices for meat animals accounted for more than half the rise in retail and farm prices. Marketings of meat animals were down from a year ago. Prices of fresh vegetables and citrus fruits rose sharply during the winter, mainly because of unfavorable weather.

Sentiment Against H-Bomb Tests Mounting In Britain

LONDON — There evidently is wide sentiment in Britain for stopping H-bomb tests.

The Labor party favors halting tests and claims an overwhelming majority of the people back their plea.

The Conservative government has been unwilling to discontinue testing. Its ministers say the dangers to future generations are nonexistent at this point.

'Big Three' Set To Deny Soviet's Bid

WASHINGTON — The West's Big Three holding diplomatic consultations here, were expected today to agree to reject the Soviet Union's call for bringing Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia into premissit talks.

Reports from London said the British were inclined to let Poland and Czechoslovakia sit in on ambassadorial talks at Moscow looking to a possible summit conference—provided it was understood clearly that this did not automatically make them eligible for the summit meeting itself.

Hunt For Three Resumed In Bay

LEWES, Del. — A Coast Guard search for three Pennsylvanians missing since Sunday in Delaware Bay was to resume at dawn today.

A half dozen boats combed the rough bay waters yesterday. The overcast weather grounded plans for an air search.

Nasser Arrives In Red Capital

MOSCOW — President Nasser flew into Moscow today for an 18-day state visit that the Kremlin hopes will bind his United Arab Republic still closer to the Soviet Union.

The trip is Nasser's first visit to a major world power.

Nasser and his 15-man delegation arrived in a Soviet TU104 jet liner. He was greeted by an array of Kremlin leaders headed by Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Prelate Says His Severed Fingers Felt

ROME — "I know they're not there," Samuel Cardinal Stritch told a visitor Monday night, "but I feel sensations in the tips of the fingers of my right hand."

The 70-year-old Roman Catholic Archbishop of Chicago's right arm was amputated above the elbow Monday after a blood clot developed. His doctors said he was recovering quickly and should be out of bed in two or three days.

Among those who visited him were the Italian surgeons who performed the amputation, two Chicago doctors who flew to Rome for consultation and Msgr. Roman R. Atkielski, auxiliary bishop of the Milwaukee diocese, and Msgr. Patrick Hayes, rector of Chicago's Holy Name Cathedral, who also flew here.

Cardinal Stritch was stricken while en route to Rome to become propret of the church's Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith. The congregation controls the church's missionary activities around the world, and the post is the highest in the Vatican hierarchy ever awarded an American.

Graham Draws Throng To Frisco's Cow Palace

SAN FRANCISCO — Evangelist Billy Graham preached last night to a near-capacity audience in his first night appearance in the cavernous 16,500-seat Cow Palace.

Attendance was unofficially estimated at 14,500.

There was no overflow crowd. The audience joined the 2,000-voice choir and then bowed heads as leaders of Graham's "crusade" led them in prayer.

Many came with Bibles in hand, as Graham had asked. "This is the largest Monday night crowd we've ever had," Graham said.

He asked those with Bibles to hold them up. "This is the largest number of Bibles on any opening night in any crusade," he exulted.

Graham took as his text the Ten Commandments, which he said every one in his audience had broken in spirit.

The Bible, he said, is a mirror, showing how short we all come of God's requirements.

Then he went down the list, and said of the high divorce rate that "we take the name of the Lord in vain when we don't keep our marriage vows."

Of gluttony, he said: "You people scoff at a man who drinks. How about pushing away from the table sooner?" Some of his fatter listeners squirmed.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

For Air Safety

ACCIDENTS LIKE the Nevada mid-air collision between a military jet and a big commercial transport deserve to be put in perspective. Though it is no help to the 49 victims of that disaster, it is a fact that in 1957 the country's domestic airlines recorded the second best safety year in their entire history. Only 31 people were killed out of the 45 million carried in 1957 over an estimated 25.5 million passenger miles. This showing, a rate of 0.1 fatality per 100 million passenger miles, was markedly better than 1956. Whether 1958 will measure up to 1957 remains to be seen. Certainly the Nevada mishap is not an encouraging incident.

THE AVIATION Safety Center at Cornell University, reporting on last year's airline performance, took serious note of the very problem pointed up by that accident—the ever-growing danger of collisions in air. Properly, it used words like "critical" and "urgent" in calling for action to diminish this peril. Hardly any report emerging today on air traffic conditions fails to dwell upon the actual collisions and the many, many near misses. Of great help has been the airlines' and pilots' voluntary resort to rigid flying rules in the busy Chicago-Washington-Boston traffic triangle.

BUT, AS THE Safety Center observes, there still are no compulsory regulations covering all traffic at high altitudes. And there, plainly, the danger becomes steadily more acute. To establish and enforce such rules is the responsibility of Congress and the executive branch. Not surprisingly, lawmakers are stirred to alarm by the recent Nevada collision. But their reactions are not really impressive. They have been disturbed before. Alarms which ring out in the aftermath of tragedy but then gradually fade away are not what the nation needs to make its air space safe. What it requires is action to provide a really comprehensive system of air traffic control at all altitudes and affecting all aircraft.

Warring Allergies

WELL, NOW it's out. A lot of us have suspected it for a long time, but now we know for sure. We can be allergic to ourselves. A professor of pathology at the University of Pennsylvania's Graduate School of Medicine, Dr. Max Strumia, says part of the human body can act as though other parts were actually foreign to it. The medical fellows may just be getting around to establishing this as a scientifically provable fact. But who hasn't had the hunch? There are those days when your head feels like a foreigner and you'd be happy to deny it a passport. Or those times when you've gone without sleep and your legs feel like logs. Who wants 'em? But those are the extreme occasions. Most any morning you care to name, most of us drag ourselves to the breakfast table feeling like a battlefield laid waste by warring allergies. It isn't until around 10 o'clock that we decide maybe some kind of internal armistice has been declared and we can stagger through until the next round of combat begins. What we need to know from Dr. Strumia is this: Is co-existence possible?

Boost For Training

AS A RESULT of a new ruling, federal income taxpayers are to be permitted to deduct the cost of training taken to "maintain or improve" skill. Teachers have long been able to benefit under a similar provision, but only if additional training was required by the terms of an employment contract. There can be little argument with this new ruling. Individual efforts to improve competence are worthwhile, and society in general benefits by such adult education. One apparent flaw in the new ruling is that educational expenses may not be deducted if the primary purpose was to qualify for a better job, though if promotion results incidentally that is all right. Still, on the whole the Treasury decision is a welcome boost for those who want to perform better on the job.

This And That Of Modern American Life

NEW YORK — AMERICANS IN A NUTSHELL: In preparation for National Foot Health Month, Boston Doctor Joseph Lelyveld (callouses consultant to the Diones, Queen Elizabeth's kiddies and Princess Caroline of Monaco) confides that a good way to rest them frequently on his desk. Simultaneously, no doubt, watching arches rise and wages fall.

The Knoxville Symphony's conductor, David Van Vactor, took a survey which shows students with fine musical taste have higher grades and leadership qualities. Rock 'n' roll stimulates the nerves, symphony the imagination.

Gallup reports that inability to earn enough money is number one complaint of 90 per cent of Americans. The unfurnished 10 percent were not in high income brackets; just in low boiling-category.

"WOMEN who gamble do not mind losing money as much as men who gamble," according to Alynne Whalen, who interior decorated the gay, gaudy Roosevelt raceway, and is now doing up New York's Aqueduct race track. "That's because women horse-players are soothed by color and social surroundings. Men are more horse-conscious, less 'horsey'."

Dozens of alligators bask in the damp darkness of New York City's 5,000 miles of sewer system. "Catholic Digest" reports they were bought as pets by children and flushed away by parents. In the sewers they grow into monstrous size. No danger. Twenty-thousand men guard the city — from underneath.

MORE immediate threat to peace of mind is revealed by the Better Business Bureau, which warns of crooked air-conditioning advertising. In special bulletins, BBB says disregard all claims of "no wiring problem," "just plug in," "take it home and be cool tonight," etc. Special wiring, BBB insists, is required for all room air conditioners, at least in New York.

DIANNA Gayle Bell, the national Camp Fire Girls' "exceptional teenager" from Baton Rouge, runs a nursery for all the neighborhood children on Wednesday nights so their parents can attend church services. She is, by rank and inclination, a "torch-bearer."

Are televised college courses a snap, or are home-viewers brighter than classroom students? NYU's pioneer video course in comparative literature had an enrollment of 142. Ten per cent received "A," and 50 per cent "B."

ON THE SUBJECT of women being stronger, longer-lived and wealthier than men, a Michigan male writes:

"Sure men are weaker, but who builds and operates the ocean liners, sea-spanning aircraft, 1,000-foot TV towers, miles-long bridges? Sure man is dumber, but who discovered pasteurization, insulin, polio vaccine, and surgical techniques that enable you women to live so long? Sure man's life span is shorter, but who devotes his precious few years to exploring, pioneering, defending his country and the lazy women who over-populate it?"

It's remarks like this that can drive a woman to think.

Washington Sees Space Station Model

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Things got on a very elevated plane here when Kraft Ebricke, German-born assistant to the technical director of Convair-Astronautics, brought to town his new 10-foot toy model of a basic space station.

He says the real thing—which would be 106 feet long and weigh 15,000 pounds—could be built in five years at a cost of around half a billion dollars.

It would operate 400 miles above the earth's surface with a crew of four men. A year or two after it was established—which would take about two weeks—it could be used as a base for launching improved instrumented comets to reconnoiter the moon, the planets and the outer solar system.

DR. EBRICKE showed his model to congressional committees considering the creation of a government space agency. He gave an advance showing to National Press Club.

The next pitch is to sell the idea to the Pentagon or the civilian Advanced Research Projects Agency and get a go-ahead.

In preliminary design, the Atlas or Thor intercontinental ballistic missile "tank" or cylinder would be used.

The routine for getting this space station into operation would be something like this, for the Atlas job:

First an Atlas "tank" would be orbited, empty.

Then a passenger missile carrying the first four-man crew would follow, with another cargo missile carrying equipment for the aft end of the space station.

THERE WOULD, of course, have to be a lot of precision in these successive launchings. For the space ship would be going 18,000 miles an hour or five miles a second. Supply missiles couldn't miss connections by more than a half second.

What's called "proportional navigation," a technique used to steer interceptor missiles to home on their targets, would be used to bring all cargo and passenger vehicles into the vicinity of the space station.

There would be two-man gliders attached to the personnel-carrying missile. These gliders would be used for transferring the crew to the space station. They would be docked by small steering rockets.

The crew would enter the space station tank, install the emergency power, water and oxygen supply systems.

A second passenger-carrying missile would then deliver a relief capsule. It would be placed in the forward end of the space station and inflated from a bottle.

FOUR ROOMS would be established in this capsule. In the nose would be the wash room. Waste liquids would have to be distilled and recycled to keep supply constant.

Under this would be the pantry, eating and recreation room, the sleeping room and the control room.

A third cargo missile would then deliver a nuclear power plant. It would be installed by still another relief crew, transported in a third passenger-carrying missile. This final crew would make the space station operational.

The size of the original space station vehicle could be increased by linking the tanks of the emptied cargo and passenger-carrying vehicles, as extra rooms.

Dr. Ebricke says this space station could be used to teach crews to live in space. He insists that the first crews sent out would not be suicide squads.

To get the crews back to earth as they are relieved, once a month, the two-place gliders would be used.

Any volunteers?

So They Say

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO
April 29, 1933
Saturday

PRESIDENT'S DAY — People throughout the nation will honor President Roosevelt tomorrow in an observance of President's Day, during which expressions of gratitude and prayers will be offered for what he has accomplished in his first eight weeks in the White House.

NEW INTERPRETATION—Sale of beer on Sunday is permitted, and sale of the beverage from trucks is prohibited, under interpretations of the state beer law by William L. Henderson, assistant attorney general. Such establishments as incorporated clubs and bona-fide hotels and restaurants "may in my opinion continue to keep open and serve beer."

ACTION PROMISED—Speedy House action was promised today to complete congressional approval and give the administration unprecedented machinery to inflate the currency and increase farm prices.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK—An audacious fellow who works on Madison Avenue in the blue, flannel suit instead of a gray one, invited me over to lunch with the advertising clan the other day because they all felt that the City of New York was making bums out of them.

I said I didn't think it was just the City of New York, but a combination of cynical events like the Federal government's constant warnings against false claims in advertising.

"Be that as it may," said my host, twisting into a Scotch Mist with a twist of lemon peel, "what we have in mind is to appoint you as champion of our grievance."

"What's the grievance?"

"THE CITY of New York has just purchased 50 sidewalk ash trays at $19.30 each and where have they put all of them? On Our Street in front of Our Agencies. In other words, all 50 are in the advertising agency sector between 43rd and 60th Streets. This implies that we are filthy citizens disdainfully flinging cigarette butts on the public sidewalks and, thus, classifiable as nuisances.

"It is surveyed truth that 52,000,000 cigarettes are sold each day in the City of New York. But do they think, in spite of the tectonics incident to our profession, that we smoke all of them? How about over in your sector, Broadway? I see more bums throwing cigarette stubs in the streets and on the sidewalks over there than we would throw in a year.

"ALSO, EVERY time I pick up a newspaper I read nothing but stories about how the City of New York is crying pauper. It can't do this and it can't do that because the cupboard is bare. Mayor Wagner is on the train to Albany begging alms from the State of New York more often than he is at his desk in City Hall.

But without consulting the taxpayers or anyone else, the City of New York has heaved $965 into the air to buy some fancy ash trays for Madison Avenue. On top of that, it had to buy special equipment for emptying the ash trays. It's profligate, I say. And have you seen these ash trays? I wish I had one at home. Lovely."

THE ASH TRAYS causing all this gray flannel hysteria are made of aluminum, based in sand, are 14 inches in diameter and are set on metal posts 2½ feet tall.

"This is the foot in the door," said my host. "It's only the beginning. The City of New York is going to foist other facilities on the town and before we know it we'll have those sidewalk facilities so celebrated in Paris. Wait and see."

"Actually, if these ash trays stay, it will be the beginning of a chain of unhappy foistings. I think it is the first step to thought-control program, and you know what thought-control did to Japan. Give an official an ash tray and he'll be a brain-washer inside 18 months. It's disgusting."

THE LUNCH was good, so I managed not to join him in indignation. It seemed to me that if any group had a yell coming it was the Fifth Avenue Association, which has been ignored. Madison Avenue is the winner in this case. And, besides that, Manhattan is not the only borough of five to get ash trays. Even poor little Staten Island is going to get four. Putting four ash trays in a place the size of Staten Island is like putting an ice cream cone in the center of the Sahara in July. But four, I suppose, are better than none.

WE GOT AROUND to the mousse au cognac around 3 o'clock, a dessert fancied along Madison Avenue, and my host lit into the situation again.

"Everyone is against us," he said. "We have been lampooned in cartoons, pilloried in novels, tormented on TV, and editorials, even, have been written about our pretensions. You would think we were the Iron Maiden of 1958. "Actually we do a superb job. We not only make goods attractive to the buying public, but help educate it. I choose to think our standing in semantics is improving the English language usage in the United States. Right?"

"YOU MEAN improving grammar usage by constant employment of 'like' when you mean 'as'?"

"Oh, that was a cigarette selling gag," he said. "Right?"

"Wrong," I said. "I can write down exactly 17 current national ads in which 'like' is used instead of 'as.' Even kids in schools are derisive."

"It's a gimmick," he said airily, as we stepped out onto the sidewalk. "Try to help us."

He walked away, flipping his cigarette stub against the stand holding the ash tray. It hit, sparked and bounced off, rolling into the gutter.

Boys, Just Look And Laugh

WASHINGTON—It pains me to report, fellow husbands, that we've lost the good fight against The Sack.

This became apparent the other evening when a friend of mine took a look at a woman of his acquaintance and immediately became extra solicitous about seeing that she had a comfortable chair.

This wasn't so easy because they were at a cocktail party and chairs were at a premium. But he found her a soft seat. He brought her some pillows, and when he came up also with a footstool, she demanded to know why all the attention.

HE WAS AN embarrassed fellow, but he finally mumbled something about how glad he was she intended to have another baby. The lady laughed. She said she was wearing no maternity dress, but a chemise. My man retreated in confusion, and I think he would have been justified in getting drunk.

I mean, gentlemen, when an honest citizen can't distinguish between an expectant mother and the helle of the ball, he's had it. All is lost.

MY OWN BRIDE has not yet bought herself a chemise, but she's making signs in that direction.

I trust that when she does, the belt will be somewhere down around her knees. That isn't my own idea of beauty, but I claim it is better than a belt directly below the hips. I saw a lady wearing one of the latter type of dresses in gray and somehow she reminded me of a hippo. She wasn't fat, either. It was that belt placed where a belt never was meant to be.

ALL OVER OUR town the government's beautiful secretaries are blossoming, if that is the word, in sacks. They're not even keeping their eyes downcast. They act like they were proud.

I took this up with a girl I know, who was clad in such a dress the color of a tangerine. This fitted her nowhere, and it looked to me like her little sister had whipped it up on her mother's sewing machine according to a pattern for a pony blanket. I shouldn't have mentioned this.

The lady in orange said the dress was fun to wear. She said it wasn't supposed to fit. The idea, she explained, was for it to conceal, except for an occasional hint, all sign of the girl underneath. She said this was more interesting than a costume which revealed at once the sex of the wearer.

THERE'S ONLY one out that I can see, gentlemen. So long as the female sex is on this straight-up-and-down binge, the only thing a mere man can do is look and laugh.

The funniest dresses, I do believe, are the ones that look like pearls, upside down. Perambulating lampshades are good for a smile, too, while dresses with belts around their hips, complete with buckles in the back, strike me as jokes on the other sex.

THE THING is, men, if you're clucking you can't whistle. This is a physical impossibility. Even as I write this, the call of the wolf seldom is heard in our land, because the wolves are busy laughing.

You've doubtless discovered long since, as have I, that one thing a woman can't abide is being a laughing stock. That's our only hope, I doubt if the girls can take the guffaws much longer.

NEW YORK—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON—Well, now, we've got Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn talking like an Ivy League football coach, and President Eisenhower like a fight manager. Alcorn is making gloomy predictions of a GOP defeat this fall, and he is declaring he's going to be in there fighting. If this keeps up, national politics may yet make the sports pages.

Alcorn says it isn't in the cards for the Republicans to win control of the Senate in November. He reminds me of a whole succession of college coaches I used to know who often seemed more afraid of appearing brash than of discouraging their players. But like asserts, with the inspiring defiance of the boxing manager, who won't be in the ring himself, that he isn't conceding anything.

I never cared much for that Ivy League approach, even if it did sound refined and modest. I do not feel that modesty is a desirable attribute, either in sports or politics. Give me the guy who says, "They won't lay a glove on us" and you won't find me caviling that he won't personally be within hitting distance.

If rooting were not frowned upon at our White House news conferences I would have leaped up with a mighty cheer when our leader challenged the Alcorn prophecy of doom in these clear, ringing words:

"Now for my part I have never admitted defeat on any fight I had to fight. I once had to participate in a high school team that played against a college, and we still made a pretty good show of it, but we didn't admit in advance that we were going to lick them—going to be licked—and I'm not doing it now."

WELL, NOW, ISN'T that more rousing, doesn't that make the good red blood course faster through their—your—its—veins, than namby-pamby talk about throwing a card game?

The hierarchy of the Republican National Committee seems preoccupied with cards, and I find it downright depressing. A few weeks ago, Miss Bertha Adkins, who is Alcorn's assistant in charge of drumming up female votes, addressed the alumni of her old alma mater, Wellesley. She said she wished they could all vote Republican, "but that it wasn't in the cards."

My father wouldn't let us play cards at home. His explanation was that it was sinful and bound to lead to other excesses, such as resting. But I was beginning to have a belated hunch that he may just have feared it was too sedentary and would take the fight out of us. If Mr. Alcorn and Miss Adkins insist upon playing cards at a time like this they might at least pretend they were playing for keeps.

I admired President Eisenhower's fighting retreat, but I could wish he had chosen another analogy. I am afraid his illusion to his high school team playing a college team may provide quibblers with a quibble. But I intend to turn on any such casuist and read him this:

"You know perfectly well our leader did not mean to imply that a high school team would be up against the varsity this November!"

THE POLITICAL game is confusing enough without unlikely people making unlikely political forecasts. Why, now we have the broker firm of Merrill, Lynch, Penner, Pierce, & Smith, saying that 72 per cent of their customers think a Democrat will be elected President in 1960!

Did you ever, in your wildest dreams, envision a day when 72 per cent of a batch of stock market investors would be guilty of such mass political heresy?

Well, now I will say this: One time when I was a boy, a mere stripling you might say, although we didn't go in much for strapping, particularly in the Winter, I was on a high school team, but no college team would play us. But we didn't give in either, and kept on fighting although I do not recall off-hand—at the moment—for the nonce, you might say—who with.

You didn't see 72 per cent of us throwing in the sponge two years before game time.

Blood Donations Slashed Due To Outbreak Of Colds

Low physical resistance after a hard winter, plus the holiday spirit following Easter, are considered contributing factors to the failure of Cumberland to meet its quota in the Allegheny County Blood Program during March and April.

Concerned Red Cross officials, announcing next Monday's visit of the Johnstown Bloodmobile here, said many scheduled donors failed to put in an appearance for the last two blood collections. The Bloodmobile will be at the Eagles Home, North Mechanic Street, from noon till 6 p. m. Monday, and at the VFW Home at Lonaconing Tuesday from noon till 6 p. m.

"Undoubtedly, many people suffered from colds, sinus and virus infections that kept them home during March," said Mrs. Norman W. Taylor, Red Cross recruitment chairman. "The April collection, falling on Easter Monday, probably caught many donors in a relaxed frame of mind."

Cumberland's quota is set at a bare minimum to meet existing needs for fresh blood at local hospitals. Red Cross officials said, and added that failure to meet the quota endangers the supply needed for sickness and accident victims. Cumberland fell 17 pints short of its 150-pint quota in March, and 27 pints short in April.

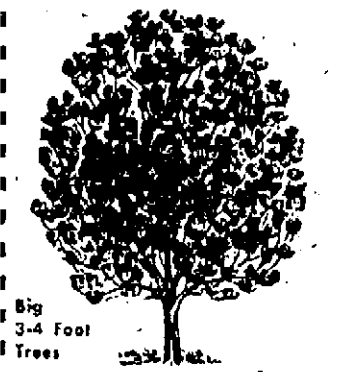

The monthly quota system is necessary, RC officials pointed out, since blood remains fresh for only 21 days, and after that can only be used for making blood derivatives.

All scheduled donors are urged to be on hand for next Monday's collection, and new donors between the ages of 18 and 60 are especially requested to take part.

Posters Must Be Removed From Poles

The posting of announcements on bridges and light poles is prohibited by the City of Cumberland under Chapter 14, Section 14 of general ordinances, according to Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn.

The penalty for violation of the ordinance is a fine of $1 to $10 for each offense.

Chief Flynn said he would like particularly to call this to the attention of candidates for various public offices who may be unaware that such a law exists. He further requested that those who may have allowed political posters to be put up take them down.

He said he has received a number of complaints in recent days that such posting has been done in the city.

Retail Clerks Union Under Trusteeship

National President
Explains Procedure
For Cumberland Unit

Because the Retail Clerks International Association had to subsidize the newly amalgamated Cumberland Local 886 the unit was placed under trusteeship, according to the president of the national group.

James A. Suffridge, RCIA president, said that time has proved the procedure to be appropriate as the local union has grown in size, improved contracts between its members and their employers and has become generally self-supporting.

Suffridge said that on March 1, 1957, RCIA Locals 654 and 886 amalgamated and became one local union after the executive boards and general memberships of both locals voted for amalgamation.

After the vote, the amalgamation was accomplished by transferring all members of Local 654 into Local 886. Coincidentally, Suffridge explained, Local 886 was placed under International trusteeship and an experienced, full time representative was appointed as business representative and acting secretary-treasurer.

This procedure, he said, was necessary under the circumstances as the International Union found it necessary to subsidize the newly amalgamated local in the amount of $50 a week, plus certain expenses, in order that the best interests and welfare of the membership be best served.

After stating that "time has proven this procedure to be appropriate," Suffridge added that trusteeship also enables the International Association to require weekly itemized reporting on the part of local representatives and is calculated to stimulate more activity and responsibility on the representatives' part due to supervision.

"As further proof of the growth of Local 886, during this period of time, the Local, with the assistance of the International Association, on April 7, 1958, employed the second full-time man, William R. Hartman, on behalf of Local 886. We anticipate in this connection further financial assistance, if necessary, in order that the Local improves its position."

Hartman, president of the local since 1950, will work with Norman L. Tyrie, business agent and acting secretary-treasurer.

Suffridge said the International Association examines the trusteeship procedure periodically and restores full autonomy as soon as a local union becomes ready for it.

He said the constitution provides that bodies in trusteeship have the right to petition for removal of trusteeship at intervals of not less than six months.

Any such petition must first be voted by a majority of the local union or other subordinate body and then filed with the International president, who must then hold another hearing.

"At no time since March 1, 1957, has Local 886, either officially or unofficially requested the removal of the said supervision," Suffridge concluded.

Two Youths Face Charges In Car Theft

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson said Juvenile Court will waive jurisdiction in the case of two 16-year-old Baltimore youths who escaped from the state forestry camp near Lonaconing and stole a car over the weekend.

J.C. Glenn Folk of the State Police said the two boys were apprehended in Lonaconing when they were thwarted in an attempt to steal a car there. Their capture climaxed a series of thefts and runaways from the forestry camp last week, he added.

One of the Baltimore boys, along with a third boy from Prince Georges County, was brought to the camp last Wednesday.

Several hours after their arrival the two transfers from a training school slipped away from the camp and stole an automobile belonging to an Avilton storekeeper.

The vehicle later was found abandoned in Hagerstown, police said, and the two boys were picked up at the home of the one in Prince Georges County.

Returned here by the director of the forestry camp, they were tried on charges of unauthorized use before Magistrate Charles S. Zeller in Grantsville on Saturday. Sentence was withheld and the two were returned to the camp.

Sunday the Baltimore youth joined with another camp member from Baltimore and the two ran away from the camp, attempting to take another car in Lonaconing, where they were apprehended by Trooper Robert Dishong.

A hearing for the two boys has been scheduled before Magistrate Morris Baron in Trial Magistrates Court on Thursday on the state motor vehicle charges.

New Salisbury Mayor Versatile

SALISBURY (A)—Farmer, band leader, cannery worker, member of the Coast Guard and master of a Chesapeake Bay freight boat. This is the versatile background of Jeremiah Valliant who'll step into office next Monday as mayor of Salisbury.

Valliant, 49, entered politics in 1950 when he was appointed to fill a City Council vacancy.

During his four years as mayor, he aims to accomplish a great many things, including a sewage disposal plant and relocation of U. S. 50 through the city.

He plans though to continue as secretary-treasurer of the Quillen-Valliant Truck Agency and to keep singing in the Episcopal Church choir.

Valliant also hopes to spend some time on boats and the water. So does his wife. It was on a boat out of Oxford one summer that he met Louise Remont, now Mrs. Valliant.

Captain Daniel K. Biggs, commander of the Citadel, will forward the proposal to divisional and territorial headquarters for final action. If the final approval is forthcoming part of the new tract may be developed for use this summer as a ball diamond and for other recreational activities.

Enough land has been optioned between Somerville and Blackiston avenues near the Jane Frazier Village for a chapel, quarters for officers and such outdoor facilities as a baseball diamond and playground.

At yesterday's board meeting, James S. Getty was elected to membership on the board.

Financial statements for both the Salvation Army Citadel and South Cumberland Corps were submitted and they showed each institution had more income than expenditures in the first quarter of 1958.

Income Listed

The Citadel's income totalled $7,173.58 in the first three months of 1958 and the expenditures reached $6,910.48. ## Wall Street Hears

NEW YORK — (INS) — Wall Street hears: The steel industry will have to absorb most of the 8-cent-an-hour wage boost due July 1. Ordinarily this would have brought a price rise of $5 to $6 a ton. But with mills operating at 50 per cent or less, much of a boost is unlikely. H. J. Heinz earnings this year are expected to compare favorably with the $6.20 per share of last year. . . . Kennebec . . . appears an assured prospect for the long pull normal equity position is advised, says C. C. Bailey of investor.

Warnings Given On Forest Fires

District Forester William H. Johnson said that 34 residents of Western Maryland have been sent written warnings during April for violations of the state's burning regulations. Those fires all were under control but in each case it still was a technical violation of the regulations. A summons will be issued to any of these persons on second offense, requiring them to appear in court.

Rain over the weekend has removed temporarily the threat of forest fires but a strong wind soon can dry the underbrush and make a good place for fire to start. The warnings went to 17 in Allegany County, 15 in Garrett County and two in western Washington County.

Until all foliage has become quite green there will continue to be a danger of fire. The months of March, April and May are set aside as the spring controlled burning months.

School's Head Remains Mum On Dismissal

LAUREL, Del. — Alonzo H. Shockley has declined to comment on his dismissal as principal of the Paul Laurence Dunbar school here.

Shockley, 37, said yesterday he had yet to receive the official word from the Board of Education of the Laurel Special School District.

Superintendent of Schools Leon B. Elder recommended at a school board meeting last Friday that Shockley's services be terminated as of June 30. He gave as his reason "willful and persistent insubordination" by Shockley. Elder also declined comment yesterday.

However, it was reported last Friday that Shockley had refused to teach a number of classes at the school. Shockley's comment to that was that "I was hired as a full time principal."

Election Unit Not To Change Name Listing

Commissioner Orr Makes Request In Citing Confusion

The Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors today ruled that the names of the candidates under the listings of the offices they seek as aligned on the voting machines will not be changed.

James Orr, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, today requested the movement of the names under the listings of sheriff and county commissioners. He said that his name appears adjacent to that of William Orr, a candidate for sheriff.

Orr said he is no relation of the sheriff candidate and believes the two names should be separated somewhat to avoid any confusion on the part of voters in the Republican primary.

As explained by Matthew J. Mullaney, a member of the Election Board, the names of the various offices are listed horizontally on the voting machines with the names of the candidates listed below in alphabetical order.

The state offices appear first in line and then follows the sheriff and county commissioner listings. Mullaney said the procedure followed by the Election Board follows that of Baltimore County and other counties and it was felt that no change should be made in Allegany County's method.

County Marks Cancer T-Day

The American Cancer Society has designated today as T-Day—Track Down Cancer Day—in Allegany County.

T-Day here will have a two-pronged objective—the raising of money needed for essential cancer control programs and the distribution of live-saving information in every home of the city and county.

The dual attack will be waged by Cancer Crusade women volunteers who will be knocking on doors and ringing bells today, and possibly tomorrow due to unfavorable weather during the morning hours today.

Families will be asked to learn cancer's danger signals and to have an annual health checkup as the best insurance against death from cancer.

"Half of those who develop cancer these days can now be saved," William Walsh, president of Allegany Chapter, Maryland Division, American Cancer Society, said this morning. "But the fact is—we are saving only one of three. Too many cancers are diagnosed too late for successful treatment. A health examination once a year for all adults would go a long way toward achieving the goal of one out of two saved. The message—see your doctor in time—is just as important to the success of T-Day as the amount of funds raised."

Walsh added that saving the other half of those stricken by cancer depends on the rewards of future research. "At least 25 cents of every dollar raised here on T-Day will go to cancer research," Walsh explained. "The Society last year nationally allocated more than $11,000,000 to research."

EASTER SEAL LUCKYBUCKS NEEDED NOW

Keegan Urges Group Study For Hospital

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan proposed to the Mayor and Council yesterday that a committee be appointed in an effort to keep Sacred Heart Hospital in operation here.

Sisters of Charity, who are in charge of the Hospital, have announced they will relinquish operation in 1960. The maternity ward has already been closed.

Keegan said he would suggest former Chief Judge George Henderson as a possible chairman for the group which would have as its purpose retaining the hospital or finding somebody to take it over.

He asked that his proposal be made in the form of a resolution.

Rain Holding Area Within Full Grasp

The Cumberland area continued to be pelted with rain today and rising water in Wills Creek caused flood work to be disrupted. The forecast calls for cloudy and cooler weather tonight with temperatures in the 40s. There will be considerable cloudiness and cooler weather tomorrow.

Temperatures will not rise any higher than the 50s. There will be a chance of some frost Thursday. Since the rain started Saturday night a total of 2.19 inches of rain has fallen in the Cumberland area. Yesterday afternoon the skies cleared shortly after noon and a bright sun shone for several hours.

Then, last night about 7:30 a thunderstorm dumped additional rainfall in Cumberland. Hundreds of shoppers in the downtown area last night were caught in the sudden downpour. There was intermittent rainfall today.

Yesterday at noon the Potomac River gauge read 6.75 feet and at noon today it had risen to 7.11 feet. This is still far below any flood danger, but the Hazelwood Construction Company could not continue flood control work in Wills Creek due to the rain.

Temperature-wise, the weather has been on the cool side during the evenings. The overnight low was 46 degrees and today at noon it was 60 degrees.

County Asked For CD Help

William G. Barger, director of Civil Defense for Allegany County, today asked the county commissioners for permission to erect a pole on the northwest inside corner of Prospect Square on which one of the air raid sirens will be mounted.

Barger explained that the siren for the past five years had been located on the rear of the old Roman property on Washington Street but had to be removed due to the construction of a new church on the property. The place for the pole is county-owned land.

Surplus Food Plan Supported

B&O Local Federation 7 today informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that the organization recommends that a surplus food distribution program be instituted in the county.

Kenneth R. Alderton, secretary of the Federation, stated that many railroad workers have exhausted their unemployment compensation and the need for food is growing among these people.

Alderton also said that his organization is willing to provide volunteer workers to help in the distribution and also give any other assistance which might be needed.

Harmony Group Holds Rally

A large number of campaign workers for the Democratic harmony ticket turned out for a meeting last night at Alconquin Hotel despite the heavy rainstorm, according to Simon F. Reilly, campaign manager.

Reilly said the workers were from the South Cumberland section and similar meetings will be held for harmony ticket workers of other sections of the city and Georges Creek.

William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan addressed the group and Reilly made a short talk. The workers made plans for conducting the drive for votes for J. Millard Tawes, for governor; Thomas D'Alessandro, for U. S. Senate; Ferdinand Sybert, for attorney general and Louis Goldstein, for comptroller.

Mineral Jury Instructed In Murder Trial

Youth Declares He Feared His Mother Would Be Harmed

Mineral County jurors hearing testimony in the murder trial of 17-year-old Joseph E. Paugh, Elk Garden, received final instructions this afternoon in Circuit Court at Keyser. An early verdict is expected.

The frail five foot two defendant is charged with fatally stabbing his father, six foot six Clarence Paugh, 58, with a hunting knife March 31 during a family argument.

In his closing remarks, Prosecuting Attorney Donald Hott pointed out the Paugh family "trouble" and said that there was "no premeditation."

Agrees With Hott

Defense Attorney Howard Shores agreed with Hott's remarks and added that the elder Paugh had a heart condition. No autopsy was performed to ascertain the exact cause of death, he stressed.

Judge Ernest A. See said the jurors may base their verdict on the following: First degree murder; second degree murder; voluntary manslaughter; involuntary manslaughter or acquittal.

Yesterday, the prisoner testified he was afraid his mother would be harmed in a family argument before the stabbing.

He said that some time ago his mother had his father arrested and placed under a peace bond due to previous family squabbles. On the day of the fatal stabbing, Paugh said, his father had threatened him and his mother.

Sharpens Knife

During the argument, the youth testified, he went into the dining room and then stood in the kitchen doorway sharpening the knife with a file.

The father, he said, pushed him against the kitchen wall. When his father turned and faced the mother, the youth stabbed his father in the back. Later, he called State Police, who placed him under arrest.

Young Paugh also testified that his mother had picked up a poker to protect herself after the senior Paugh struck her.

Trooper Charles Oliver said he investigated the case and found the knife used in the stabbing and that there was blood on the blade to within two inches of the handle.

The youth's mother and his sister, Mrs. Alma Paugh of Elk Garden, also took the stand. The mother testified that the beating inflicted by her husband had been worse than in the past.

The daughter told the jury her father had threatened her mother on the day of the stabbing. She had been visiting her parents that day.

Also testifying yesterday were Ralph Evans, 16, who had been visiting the Paugh home, and Thomas Hickey.

Students At Fort Hill High Conduct Primary Election

Students in the ninth, tenth and eleventh grades at Fort Hill High School went to the polls today in the school's primary election.

Sixty-one students are candidates for various council and class offices. Names of the winners of today's election will appear on the ballot for the general election Tuesday, May 6.

Fort Hill High School's election procedures, which are under the direction of the student council, are patterned after those of regular elections held in Maryland. The school obtained voting machines used by area residents in order that the students might have the experience of learning how to use them.

Only the registered voters of the three classes are eligible to participate. Registration took place before and after school during the past two weeks.

Candidates for office were required to obtain petitions from the school office and have signatures of 30 registered voters and three faculty members.

Student council members who assisted with the election are Darrell Oster, Dick Heavner, John Goss, Dave Eyer, John Golightly, Denny Burns, Betty Angeletta, Doris Daye and Nancy Meister.

Tuesday's pickup will be north of Williams to the city line including East Side, Bedford Road and North End.

Wednesday will be devoted to West Side.

Trash should be placed at curbs by 8 a. m. of the designated pickup day, Heller said.

Textile Union May Purchase Synagogue

Beth Jacob congregation Sunday approved the sale of its present Synagogue property on North Centre Street to Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America.

Harry Stein, secretary-treasurer of the congregation, said the amount involved is $25,000.

John G. Thomas, president of Local 1874, declined to comment on the announcement except to say that the union bid had been accepted by the congregation and that the property would be used for union headquarters.

Stein said the congregation has purchased the property occupied by St. Luke's Lutheran Church, corner of Bedford and Columbia Streets, but it may be as much as a year until the move is undertaken.

Baby Strangles On His Food

Four-month-old Mitchell Todd Payne, son of Riley B. Jr. and Barbara (Priddy) Payne, 110 North Cedar Street, was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital yesterday.

Dr. H. V. Denning, deputy county medical examiner, attributed the infant's death to asphyxiation. An autopsy was performed at the hospital by Dr. Benedict Skitarolic, pathologist.

The child was reported to have been placed on a blanket on the floor at the Payne residence. He had been lying on his back and rolled over on his stomach. Food-stuff worked its way into the child's lungs, authorities said, and he was unable to get his breath.

Born in Cumberland last December 15, the infant is survived by his parents and his maternal grandfather, Arthur B. Priddy.

Born October 31, 1889 at Town Creek, he was a retired crane operator for the Wheeling Steel Corporation at Steubenville, Ohio.

Oakland Goal Of Youth On Horseback

PITTSBURGH — Fed up with unemployment, Wayne Phillips, 19, got on his horse today and set out for his grandparents' farm in Oakland, Md.

The resident of nearby Sandy Creek was fully equipped for the trip. Atop his head was a cowboy hat. A .22-caliber revolver and a cartridge belt dangled from his belt.

Inside his saddle bag was a sleeping bag and some feed for Buck, his 3-year-old gelding. Phillips figures the 150-mile trip to Oakland will take about six days.

His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Phillips, have promised him a job. They have a store and service station on the farm.

Said Wayne: "I've had trouble getting a job. I've been out of work about five months. Every place I go they are laying off instead of hiring."

"I like the farm better than like the city. I like the wide open spaces..."

Phillips plans to travel along main highways most of the way. "I'll eat along the way," he said. "I can buy more feed for Buck. He can eat grass, too. The less weight the better."

Democrats Keep Fighting To Get Votes

Various Candidates Appear Together At Eastern Shore Town

ST. MICHAELS, Md. — Unscarred after a joint appearance which had been billed as a probable slugfest but turned out to be a love feast, candidates for Maryland's Democratic senatorial nomination left this tranquil Eastern Shore town today to hit the campaign trail in earnest again.

Four of the seven candidates turned out last night to meet about 300 Talbot County office-seekers and party leaders.

But rough-and-tumble platform talk and Mayor Thomas D'Alessandro, both expected at the meeting sponsored by the Talbot County Democratic committee, were notably absent.

Mayor Too Busy

The mayor's running mates said he was too busy with urgent business at Baltimore City Hall to make the meeting in pursuit of the senatorial nomination.

His opponents who did attend the session broke camp early and struck out in search of votes—James Bruce in Wicomico County, William F. Fadler Jr. in Montgomery, Clarence D. Long in Carroll and George P. Mahoney in Anne Arundel.

The mayor and his harmony ticket running mates—J. Millard Tawes for governor, Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert for renomination, and State Sen. Louis L. Goldstein for comptroller—headed for Frederick County from their Baltimore headquarters.

Bruce was scheduled to be accompanied in Wicomico by former Gov. W. Preston Lane Jr., marking Lane's first day-long campaign appearance since he endorsed Bruce several months ago. He had said earlier he would leave his Hagerstown law and business operations whenever possible to help the former ambassador to Argentina drum up votes in the counties.

Speeches Brief

Except for Long, the Johns Hopkins University professor making his first bid for elective office, the candidates last night confined their brief speeches mostly to pleas for party unity after the primary.

Mahoney even discarded a prepared speech in which he had criticized the Republican Administration and took a swipe at D'Alessandro's claim of strength in Baltimore City. He said he could not squeeze the 309-word address into his allotted five minutes.

Long again chided Bruce, D'Alessandro and Mahoney for ignoring his challenge to a televised debate to show the voters what each candidate "thinks without the benefit of ghost writers."

Deprived of this opportunity to see senatorial aspirants in a give-and-take discussion of the issue, he said, voters should "reject candidates who are unable, unwilling or afraid" to give them such an opportunity.

Bruce made clear he has no objection to slugging among the other candidates but added he has never dealt in personalities and does not plan to start now.

Urges Tax Relief

He then urged tax relief to small business, more aid to small farmers and tossed in a round of criticism of the Republican Administration's "light-money" policies.

Fadler called for an end to the intra-party warfare which has split Democrats in recent primaries and left them so divided and weak in general elections that Republicans, outmanned 5-2 on the registration books, have won every major statewide election since 1946.

Tawes, Sybert and Goldstein made a pitch for support for their entire ticket. D'Alessandro included, but their talks lacked the on-the-line bluntness which marked their speeches in Tawes' native Somerset County last Thursday.

There Tawes told his backers they could best help in November by helping D'Alessandro win the primary to assure the ticket of a big Baltimore City vote in the general election.

Admiration Shared

"I've got the greatest admiration for all of these candidates," Tawes said, nodding toward those seated at the head table with him.

Moments earlier, Mahoney had avowed his continued admiration of Tawes. He said he had given Tawes "a free ride" by not including a candidate for comptroller on his tickets in 1950 and 1954, when Mahoney ran for governor.

Tawes was elected comptroller both times.

"In 1956, when I ran for the Senate, he was for me," said Mahoney, "and now we still feel very friendly toward one another."

State College "Claudia" Set Tonight

Final Instructions Received At Dress Rehearsal Of Play

A most beautiful and tastefully conceived living room stage set gets the Frostburg State College Little Theatre production of "Claudia" off to a grand start in Compton Hall. The acting performance emphasizes the all-around merit of the current FSTC offering under the direction of Miss Dorothy Stone White. Public performances are scheduled tonight and tomorrow night.

Dress rehearsal last night afforded an almost perfect "run through" of the play. Miss White's final instructions concerned only ways to emphasize the dramatic highlights and to make some speeches and entrances more effective.

Mary Elizabeth Wheeler, in the title role, presents one of the best characterizations ever seen in area amateur theatricals. As a matter of fact, this reviewer feels that she could step into professional stage work on the strength of her distinguished performance in the current Little Theatre offering. As her young husband, Kenneth McKinney matches Miss Wheeler's artistry with a superlatively smooth portrayal. The outstanding work of these two college thespians assures a dramatically satisfying performance of this one-time Broadway success.

Long to be remembered is Alice Zehrbach's character projection of the opera singer, Madame Damoschka. This talented actress makes Damoschka vivid, impressive, colorful. Two other character roles, that of the Hungarian refugee and his wife, are superbly played by Hugh Mahaney and Camille Robinson, a fine feeling for theatre being evident in even the "bits" they add to their interpretations.

Marilyn Hitchcock builds up the role of Claudia's mother to stellar proportions. Her dramatic talent impresses. William Brown, while a little short on British dialect, exhibits a sensitivity and finesse in acting that gives definite quality to his excellent performance. Joan Sweeney's diction is a delight and her straight role is projected with unerring good judgment. With individual achievement at such high level, it is not surprising that the ensemble scenes are handled so smoothly and in such excellent taste. The lighting, costuming, make-up, properties and sound effects are contributing factors to a stage show that reflects great credit on Frostburg State. It is no exaggeration to say that "Claudia" comes very close to matching the best of the area summer theatres.—J.W.H.

Town Charter Amendment Is Opposed

WESTERNPORT — A petition for a referendum on a proposed change in the Westernport charter to go into effect May 8 was filed yesterday by Jake Wilson, local service station operator.

The charter amendment, unanimously adopted by the Mayor and Council, would enable the town to participate in the waste treatment program planned in that area. It would give council authority to enter into an agreement with the Upper Potomac River Commission to establish an interceptor sewer system connecting with the waste treatment plant now planned at Luke.

The petition was filed with the town clerk on the final day for such action to be taken against the amendment which had been approved March 19 by council.

If valid, the petition containing 500 signatures will force a referendum vote on the charter amendment at the biennial election May 27.

Signatures of 20 per cent of the town's 1,150 registered voters are required to force a referendum. Town Attorney Horace P. Whitworth Sr. will check the 500 signatures against registration books to determine if they are valid.

Mayor Okey Michael said council will accept the attorney's opinion on the validity of the signatures on the petition. If the required number are verified, the referendum will be placed on the ballot for the town election.

The charter change is necessary, Mayor Michael said, if the town is to participate in the use of the waste treatment facilities to be built by the river commission at Luke.

Bids were opened April 8 by the UPRC for the construction of the sewage treatment plant, but the commission has not yet accepted any of the bids. In addition to Westernport, the communities of Luke and Piedmont plan to participate in the program along with the primary backer, the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Water Shut-Off Slated Tonight

One valve will be placed at the intersection of Third and Ashfield Streets, and the other one at corner of Second Street and Child's Avenue.

When work is completed the town will be able to turn the water off to either section of the "Orchard" to make repairs without cutting off the water supply of the entire Flat.

Excavation work will be done by town workmen and employees of A. G. Clark, contractor, will take over tonight. They hope to have the work done in time to turn the water back on by 6 or 7 a.m. tomorrow.

Former Oakland Woman Drowns

MORGANTOWN — Monongalia County Coroner Clinton Cairney ruled yesterday that a woman found in the Monongahela River took her own life and was the victim of drowning.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Ada E. Mason, 50, of RD 6, Morgantown. She was a native of Oakland, Md. The woman's husband is Roy A. Mason.

Dr. M. L. Hobbs, a pathologist at West Virginia University, reported that an autopsy disclosed no foul play.

Mrs. Mason was found in the river near Granville, across the Monongahela from Morgantown.

G. E. RANGES
--------------

Lonaconing lost a true sports friend yesterday with the passing of 87-year-old Douglas G. Waddell.

The "grand old man of Georges Creek" was one of those behind-the-scenes persons who could always be depended on to contribute when the town's athletic teams were in need of support.

Baseball was his favorite game and he got a tremendous amount of enjoyment out of the Lonaconing Little League. The youngsters play their games on a field near his home and he always saw to it that the kids had drinking water.

Mr. Waddell was very civic-minded, being a member of the town council for 27 years and had 65 years of service with the Good Will Fire Company. He was Maryland's oldest volunteer fireman and Good Will's assistant chief.

He loved the hills of Western Maryland and it was in these hills that he worked most of his life. For years he operated a coal mine and was an expert with dynamite, being called on numerous times either in an advisory capacity for demolition or to do the work himself.

In the late 1920s he "shot" a stack over 100 feet high that was left standing when the Lonaconing Glass Company's plant was destroyed by fire. And in the early 1930s he was responsible for sending two old lofty stacks to earth on the site in North Cumberland where the old Wellington Glass Factory had stood.

Residents recall that the Lonaconing stack gave him some trouble when one of the charges failed to fire and only part of it fell to the ground. Mr. Waddell studied the problem, clambered up the stack for about 20 feet, planted another charge and when it exploded the bricks toppled right in the spot he had planned.

PBC Opens Boxing Door
Although suffering a $300 loss in its initial effort to revive amateur boxing in Cumberland, the Police Boys Club, we feel, can be successful.

Last Saturday's nine-hour program, winding up the two-day Maryland Amateur No-Vice Championships, definitely proved that the Cumberland area has a fine group of boys to start the ball rolling. The showing the locals made against Baltimore boxers is proof of their potential.

Baltimore's Leon Yarneth, boxing chairman of the South Atlantic Association of the AAU, and Joe Harris, who formerly held that job, were impressed with the calibre of fighters the PBC showed after an absence of seven years of the ring sport in Cumberland.

"Several of your local boys show a lot of promise," Harris said following Saturday's finals. "They need more work in the gym, however, because most of them aren't in physical condition to go the route."

Yarneth and Harris also feel, and we concur, that future shows should be held in a place better suited for a boxing program than the second floor of the vacant building at 38 North Mechanic Street.

John Daum, director of the Police Boys Club, said he hopes to be able to get the State Armory or SS. Peter and Paul gym for the next card.

With the weather getting warmer, maybe John and his PBC co-workers could line up an outdoor show under the lights of Penn Avenue Field or some other satisfactory spot.

Weirton Chief Irked
A Pittsburgh newspaper has charged undercover capers involving stride-by-stride accounts of Wheeling Downs horse races can be traced to Weirton hook-makers, and Weirton's police chief has fired back indignantly.

The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said in an article yesterday that someone in Wheeling observes the races at the half-mile track with a pair of binoculars and is equipped with a communications device to relay on-the-spot coverage to Weirton "bookies."

The newspaper reported that the description is relayed from some point overlooking the track to a public address system rigged up in a Weirton cigar store, which is a tobacco operation without a cigar to sell.

Weirton Police Chief David Ravid Reese was quoted in the Wheeling Intelligence:

"I have failed to see why Pittsburgh and Steubenville (Ohio) people don't wash their own dirty laundry first before they come here.

Stengel Worried About Where Power Went

Yanks Open Series With Formidable Detroit Foe

By FRED DE LUCA
INS Sports Writer

Presiding Yankee genius Casey Stengel, wondering where the power went, was a worried man today as his gladiators prepared to do battle with the quietly confident Detroit Tigers for the first time in 1958.

Stengel well knows that the Tigers, who always have given his team a tougher fight than any other team in the loop, split 44 games with the Yankees over the last two seasons.

This year may not be an exception, especially since the Tigers were greatly strengthened by a series of winter trades and seem to have the feeling within themselves that the Yankees can be taken.

Kuenn Confident

One of the most confident Bengals is Harvey Kuenn, the former shortstop who found his batting eye after being converted into a centerfielder.

"You can't knock the Yankees," says Kuenn, currently batting .415. "I figure they are as strong as last year but we are stronger in several ways. I really feel we will catch them this year."

Kuenn will lead the Tigers against the Bronx Bombers this afternoon at Yankee Stadium, with Paul Foytack (2-0) going for Detroit and Bobby Shantz (1-0) hurling for New York.

Stengel is quite content with his front-line pitching but is concerned about his second-string hurling. Nevertheless, the staff owns a brilliant 1.93 earned-run-average.

Stengel is really worried about his team's hitting — or lack of it. The team average is an un-Yankee like .256, while the Tigers are batting .293.

Play Next 16 At Home

Two of the bigger villains are Mickey Mantle at .286 and Yogi Berra at .195.

The Yanks hope to sharpen their batting eyes at the stadium, where they will play their next 16 games. The Detroit invasion will signal the start of the first road trips in the two big leagues. There were no games scheduled yesterday so the teams could complete their traveling.

In other American League games today, Kansas City's second-place A's send Jack Urban (1-0) against Boston and Tom Brewer (1-1). In night games, Chicago's cellar-dwelling White Sox call on Billy Pierce (0-2) against Baltimore and Bill O'Dell (1-2). Herb Score, who has lost once, tries for his third Cleveland win against Washington and Camilo Pascual (0-1).

Pirates In LA

In the National League, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh will hit the road to California while Milwaukee visits Chicago and St. Louis invades Cincinnati.

San Francisco's amazing Giants will call on Ramon Monzant (2-1) to protect their top standing against Curt Simmons (0-2) of the Phils. Milwaukee's undefeated Warren Spahn will go for his third win against ex-Brave Taylor Phillips (0-0) or Gene Fodge (1-0) of the Cubs.

In night games, Bob Friend (2-0) of the Pirates tries for his third against Carl Erskine (1-0) of the Dodgers, and Vinegar Bend Mizell (0-1) faces Bob Purkey (2-0) of the Redlegs.

The Dodgers will try to continue their fabulous draw in the Coliseum, where 377,601 fans have flocked for nine dates.

Laurel To Hold 1959 Maturity

LAUREL, Md. — Laurel race track is out to attract the likes of Jewel's Reward, Tim Tam, Siky Sullivan and other top three-year-olds with the announcement of a new stake race for four-year-olds.

The track said the race, named the Laurel Maturity Handicap, should gross more than $100,000 by 1960. At first, it will carry $50,000 in added money and will be a mile and an eighth feature.

The Laurel Maturity will be similar to the Santa Anita Maturity, run each January in California, and will be the only race of its type east of the Mississippi.

The race will be run next spring with nominations for both the 1959 and 1960 runnings closing next Aug. 1. After that, nominations will close two years in advance.

Walter Johnson pitched 113 shutouts for the Washington Senators. Seven came in opening games of the season.

PVC Track Meet Slated Tomorrow At Frostburg

The fourth annual Potomac Valley Conference track and field meet will be staged tomorrow, starting at 3 p. m., on the Beall High field in Frostburg.

Five schools, including last year's champion Black Hawks from Ridgeley, will compete in the 12 events. Of the five teams entered, three have won honors — Ridgeley, Romney and Berkeley Springs.

The Pioneers won the first affair in 1955 and Berkeley Springs took the title in '56. Both of those years the meet was staged at Fort Hill stadium.

The Black Hawks finished on top last spring when Berkeley Springs was the host school. Ridgeley won the 4 1/2 mile relay last event on the card, to edge the Indians, 47 1/2 to 44, while Keyser wound up in third place with 38 1/2 and Elk Garden fourth with five.

Also slated to send representatives will be Keyser, and West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney. Of the dozen events, eight are running tests and will be the 100 and 220 dashes, 440, 880 and mile runs, 440, 880 and mile relays.

In the field program will be the discus, shot put, high jump and broad jump.

All five of the schools have participated in meets this spring with Romney winning over West Virginia Deaf in their only action. Keyser won over Beall and Ridgeley and whipped the Fort Hill JV's while finishing second to Allegany in a dual affair.

Ridgeley has split in two appearances, beating Fort Hill's JV's and Berkeley Springs in a triangular at the stadium last week. That meet was the only one this season for the Indians.

Orioles Plan Changes For Game Tonight

BALTIMORE — Billy Pierce, seeking his first win of the season, will start for the Chicago White Sox against the Baltimore Orioles tonight.

The slender Chicago southpaw, 0-2 so far this season, posted 15 wins against the Orioles while losing only three games over four years.

Orioles Manager Paul Richards will counter with pitcher Billy O'Dell in the first of a three-game series, the season's first meeting of the two teams. O'Dell has one victory and two losses this season.

Miranda At Short
Richards originally planned to start lefty Jack Harshman tonight, but yesterday decided on O'Dell, with Harshman ready to go against Early Wynn here tomorrow night.

The Baltimore boss may put Willy Miranda in at shortstop, replacing Foster Castleman. Miranda has indicated he's set to go after convalescing for five weeks from a sprained left ankle.

The 31-year-old Pierce won 20 and lost 12 for the White Sox last season, including a 3-1 record against the Orioles. So far this season he was on the losing end of a 4-3 victory by Detroit and later was bested 2-0 by Cleveland's Herb Score.

Plenty Of Rest
Tonight's clash will also find such ex-Orioles as Tito Francona, Ray Moore, Billy Goodman and Les Moss wearing Chicago uniforms.

The Orioles have had plenty of time to rest up for the Chicago series. Yesterday was an open date and Sunday's scheduled double-header with the New York Yankees was washed out.

The weather tonight was expected to be cloudy with a chance of showers. Barring bad weather, a crowd of 20,000 was expected at Memorial Stadium.

Kuenn Confident Detroit Can Win
NEW YORK — While most of the other clubs in the American League tremble at the very thought of the mighty New York Yankees, the Detroit Tigers in general — and Harvey Kuenn in particular — think the Bronx Bombers are going to wind up also-rans this year.

The Bengals, arrived for a two-game set in the Yankee Stadium today and if they were awed at the Yanks' 8-3 record at the expense of the Eastern teams, they didn't show it.

Kuenn, who has made a remarkable transformation from shortstop to center fielder and currently is leading the league with 22 hits and a .415 batting average, did not knock the Yanks.

"They're probably as strong this year as last," he observed thoughtfully. "But we are stronger in several ways and I really feel we will catch them this time."

Writers Ask Homer Record Due To LA Park Be Invalid

NEW YORK — (AP) — A majority of the nation's sports writers recommended today that any new home run record which may be set because of the Los Angeles Coliseum's short left field fence be declared invalid.

An Associated Press poll of nearly 200 sports writers, editors and columnists showed exactly 60 per cent in favor of not recognizing National Leagueers who may top Babe Ruth's major league record of 60 home runs in one season. That would, of course, include Hack Wilson's National League mark of 56.

Of the 193 replies, 116 voted "no" to the following question: "If and when a National Leagueur tops Babe Ruth's 60 homers, should he be officially recognized as the new home run champion?"

Ten of the 77 who voted to recognize any new home run marks proposed a footnote, explaining that the record was set with the aid of the Coliseum's 250-foot left field fence. Seven affirmative voters qualified their answer with the provision that the record should be recognized only if a majority of the four-baggers were hit in parks other than the Coliseum.

Still others said only Dodger players should be legislated against because they play 77 games in the lopsided park.

The writers also advocated uniform dimensions in parks for home run requirements as well as the extension of the Coliseum's present 42-foot screen to 100 feet. Opinion varied on the size of the screen, ranging from 60 to 1,000 feet. The vote for uniform dimensions was a whopping 78 per cent while 67 per cent agreed on a height increase.

Major Leagues Should Expand, Says MacPhail
BALTIMORE — The major leagues should expand to two 12-team leagues, the farm systems should be limited, ball parks be modernized and big league managers should "shake off their apathy," Larry MacPhail said Monday night.

MacPhail, one-time general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees, said 13 of the 16 major league ball parks are now obsolete and lack adequate parking facilities.

He excepted Baltimore's Memorial Stadium, Milwaukee's County Stadium and Yankee Stadium.

MacPhail, now a successful horse breeder at Bel Air, Md., spoke at the 37th annual Scimitar dinner, held in honor of the Baltimore Orioles.

He said that unless major league officials end their current apathy and try to solve their problems, the game will dissolve into a "studio push-button" sport.

Wily Willie Pep Favored Tonight

BOSTON — Willie Pep, the wily one from Hartford, Conn., who had his first professional fight Independence Day in 1940, will headline the boxing card at Mechanics Building tonight when he opposes Jimmy Kelly of Lowell in a scheduled 10-round affair.

Kelly who isn't yet old enough to vote has only had 13 pro bouts, compared to Pep's 200 plus, but he fought some 75 amateur bouts.

His professional career, though short, has been rugged. His opponents have included an Olympic champion and two national champions.

Those who think Pep's legs will stand tussling with his younger, rugged foe have made Willie a slight favorite.

Derby Trial Today Could Clear Picture

By ORLO ROBERTSON
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Kentucky Derby picture, muddled by an injury to a top-flight jockey, the weather and the prospect of the largest field in recent years, may be clarified today.

It may come with the renewal of the Derby Trial Stakes at Churchill Downs.

A convincing victory in the mile race by Calumet Farm's Tim Tam, Nadir from the Claiborne Farm or any of the eight other entries would go a long way in reducing the field for Saturday's 84th running of the $125,000-added turf classic.

At least 25 of the original field of 140 nominees are now considered probable starters in the 1 1/4-mile Derby.

Some of the owners undoubtedly will think otherwise after today's trial.

Tim Tam is the odds-on favorite to take the trial and establish himself as the solid choice for the Derby itself. Nadir, co-champion of the 1957 juveniles with Jewel's Reward, also will be watched closely. He is a member of the Derby's Big Four that includes Tim Tam, Jewel's Reward and Silky Sullivan.

The question of a jockey to replace the injured Bill Hartack aboard Tim Tam was settled when trainer Jimmy Jones picked Ismael Valenzuela, New York's leading rider this spring. A good ride today and Jones likely will call on the 24-year-old Texan of Mexican descent again Saturday.

West Virginia Plans New Division For Cage Teams

By DICK LEONARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

There will be a few new bounces at next year's West Virginia high school basketball tournament at Huntington if the principals follow the recommendations of the coaches.

Instead of the present Class A and Class B tournament setup, there would be three divisions of competition. Under the proposed revision the three divisions generally would follow the plan used in determining the high school football classification.

In the football classification, schools having an enrollment of more than 250 boys are in Class AA, schools having between 115-250 are in Class A, and schools with less than 115 boys are in Class B.

To Meet With Board

Questionnaires on the proposal were mailed to 252 state high school principals last Saturday. Their answers will be used as a basis for setting up next year's tournament competition. The State Coaches Assn. has recommended the proposed revision.

Coaches' representatives are scheduled to meet with the four-man State Board of Appeals at Charleston May 17 to iron out details of the basketball tournament setup and the football rating plan.

Only one major change in the football rating plan is foreseen. That is to permit a defeated team to be rated for state title consideration.

Also on the agenda is a proposal to abandon the practice of calling classifications AA, A and B. These would be replaced with AAA, AA and A. Seems there's a growing tendency to look with disfavor upon the connotation of Class B.

"Too many people think of a Class B school as being of inferior caliber," one school official explained. "Actually many of the smaller high schools are Class A in everything but size."

Break For Middle Schools

The big reason for the inauguration of a three-class basketball tournament is to give the middle-sized schools a break. For example, state Class A champion Parkersburg played in the same sectional tournament with such medium-sized schools as Spencer, St. Marys and Harrisville.

In recent years, because of the big difference in enrollment, Parkersburg has had little trouble getting past the sectional.

If the proposal is adopted for the basketball tournament, there would be 40 Class AA teams, 69 Class A teams and 143 Class B teams. Because of increased enrollment, we might have a decision over Johnny Gorman at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night. He was unimpressed and the crowd of 1,210 spent much of its time booing the pair.

Ryff, who weighed 138½, to Gorman's 143½, gave his fellow New Yorker a boxing lesson. There were no knockdowns and neither fighter was marked at the end of the 10 rounds.

Leavitt mentioned that a similar report was investigated last year but the track found no such bookie activities.

25,000 Fans To See U. S. Teams Today

TIFLIS, Russia (AP)—A crowd of 25,000 fans from the Russian Republic of Georgia was expected tonight in Dynamo Stadium here as the high-scoring American team touring the Soviet Union met a Georgian quintet.

The U. S. men's team easily defeated an Azerbaijani five here Monday night for its third consecutive victory, 94-46. Harv Schmidt, Burdy Halderson and Joann Dean put on an exceptional display for the Russians, who thoroughly enjoyed the game, despite its one-sidedness.

The American girls, losing two games in Moscow, improved their record with their first victory Monday, defeating a Georgian squad 42-37. The females take on an Estonian squad tonight.

Schmidt, a member of the Denver-Chicago Truckers and teammates Halderson and Dean of the Bartlesville, Okla., Oilers pushed the U. S. squad to a 43-20 half-time lead.

The American squads fly back to Moscow Wednesday to witness the annual May Day parade in Red Square.

Romans Golfing Streak Continues

BETHESDA, Md. (AP)—Walter Romans, the Baltimore Country Club pro, continues his torrid early-season pace in the Middle Atlantic PGA pro-amateurs after a par 70 gave him a tie with Bernie Haas of Indian Spring for low pro in yesterday's event at Bethesda Country Club.

Romans, who was low pro two weeks ago, and tied for third last week, had nines of 36-34, including sensational birdies on the 16th and 17th holes.

Haas, 24-year-old teaching pro, had 37-33 and was the day's big money winner as he teamed with Byron Moe of the host club to post an 8-under-par 62 in the best ball competition.

Other major pro-am winners were Stan Mouser of Kenwood and Ken Perstel of Congressional, a 63, and two teams at 65, Cos Tiso of Bonnie View and Ricky Lynch, Baltimore night club singer, and the home club team of Harry Griesmer and Dr. D. M. Yap.

Billy Buppert of Bethesda, former Baltimore amateur and assistant pro who recently regained his amateur standing, led the amateurs with a 73. Bobby Brownell and Ralph Zagor of Chevy Chase, and John Eisinger of Congressional all had 74s.

Griesmer, the host pro, Billy Gilbert of Argyl and John Musser of All View in Elliott City had 71 to tie for third in the pro sweeps.

Hunters Get Paid To Eliminate Deer

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP)—Want to be a professional hunter?

Full time jobs can be obtained from the New Zealand government shooting deer.

Nearly 5 million noxious animals have been destroyed in official operations since 1946. Killings reached a peak last year when 1,259,083 animals were destroyed, including more than a million opossums, 72,000 goats, 62,000 deer, 5,000 chamois, 9,000 wallabies and 5,000 wild pigs.

Hunters are employed to keep the deer population down in order to preserve the country's bush and forests and to stop the animals from moving down on to the valuable high-country runs in search of new feeding grounds.

Paul Douglas Acting Tops

By JACK O'BRIAN
NEW YORK (INS) — Paul Douglas in Studio One's "The Edge of Truth" gave the best performance we've seen him deliver on TV.

It was a formula affair lifted to distinction by a powerful, sensitive, intelligent approach to a cliché, proving that occasionally the playing's the thing.

Goodbye Theatre's "Giant Step" last night was "any above its so-so average" — a suspenseful episode with Robert Ryan, and a lad headed straight for the stars, one Michael Landon.

They gave Rusty Hamner and Angela Lansbury of the Danny Thomas show some smart lines, and a chance to act well, and they came through time.

Elizabeth Scott joins Pantomime Quiz tonight.

Godfrey's opus last night was half Talent Scouts, half his old "Godfrey & Friends."

Dick Roman still was the class of the show.

Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin will "Meet The Press" Sunday and if they ask the right questions it could be a major explosion.

Ernie Kovacs' famous panto-mimed NBC-TV telecast (Jan. 19, 1957) goes to the finals of the international experimental film competition at the Brussels World's Fair; it was one of 403 films submitted.

No doubt about it, Skitch Henderson was the TV discoverer of pianist Van Cliburn, who won the Moscow piano prize and turns up on Allen's comicality May 25.

Henderson's hunch paid off in getting the Texan on "Tonight" Jan. 19 and April 13, 1955, so the lad is returning the favor.

Sinatra's May 23 ABC film might be better than most; his guests will be Pat Suzuki, the great young jazz singing prospect seen first on the Jack Paar cast, and Natalie Wood, whose movie career took a galvanic momentum after she showed her sparkling gamut on Bob Hope's "opus."

Rise Stevens, great gal, great voice, nice person, stars for the umpteenth time on Voice of Firestone May 26.

Wendy Barrie's "Notebook" as a syndicated radio series.

Soap Opera Popularity Increasing

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — Television program types come and go, but soap opera goes on forever. It appears, in fact, that its strength is increasing.

"Love of Life," the CBS-TV daytime series, recently increased its time from 15 to 30 minutes. It is expected that two half-hour operas will take the place of "Matinee Theater" (NBC-TV) after it returns from the home screen in a few weeks.

The people who work in daytime serials detest that phrase "soap opera." Their viewpoint of their craft is seldom aired. Here, for a change, are some articulate remarks on the subject by John D. Hess, who writes "Love of Life" while living comfortably in a large house in Bucks County, Pa., with his wife and children.

"The term 'soap opera' is, among the glib and careless, a handy phrase that like most handy phrases is basically unfair. It assumes that all daytime serials are of exactly the same quality and one might believe they were all written to rigid formula. The fact is that the work of daytime serial writers can and does vary enormously in quality, in purpose and in results."

"There are, however, severe limitations in writing daytime serials which nighttime writers don't face. The most serious limitation is that we are separated from our audience for at least 24 hours between exposures, depending on each viewer's watching habits. In the writing, you can't build up a steadily mounting situation which is resolved at the end of the program. Rather, the interest must go on."

"This attenuation and this sporadic audience contact are the facts of life a serial writer has to face."

Schine Plans Sale Theatre In Queen City

The Liberty Theatre here is one of 17 motion picture theatres which will go on the auction block this month by order of the Schine Circuit, Inc.

The local theatre is one of eight to be auctioned by the Day Auction Company in Rochester, N. Y., May 19. Nine others will be sold at Glens Falls, N. Y., May 24.

The Liberty Theatre will be offered subject to a minimum upset price of $75,000 and use as a theatre.

It is a one-story brick building fronting 66 feet on Liberty Street. The theatre has a seating capacity of 933, and the Liberty Street frontage has three stores.

The sale includes 17 theatres including divestiture theatres and non-divestiture theatres, a number of which must be sold for operation as moving picture theatres and others can be used for commercial purposes, such as chain stores, bowling alleys, food fairs and other interests.

The divestiture properties will be sold under provisions of the consent decree of June 24, 1949, that these properties must be offered for sale as motion picture theatres and offers for the properties must contain representations of such intended use.

Safety Officer Forgets Rules

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP)—Police Sgt. J. E. Mosteller, after lecturing a Boy Scout troop on safety, ran a stop sign and hit a car.

Acting as the investigating officer, the embarrassed police veteran quoted himself that he thought the stop sign was one block away. He charged himself with running it.

Both cars were damaged, but no one, including a startled Scout riding with the sergeant, was injured.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The person who wrote to you and said he wanted to go to church but felt like such a sinner he didn't think he was good enough to be there, could have been me. I go once in a while and would go more often but I keep thinking of how much I have sinned and I am ashamed to be in the Lord's House. So I pray at home. Do you think God hears me?

ANOTHER SINNER

DEAR "SINNER": Of course God hears you, but you need not stay away from church. The Church is a hospital for sinners—not a museum for Saints.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married six years, and we both have wanted a baby since the day we were married. Seven weeks ago I had a baby boy and we were so happy we were dancing for joy. Something happened and our baby lived only 16 days. My problem is that practically everyone we talk to tells us to try again to help get over the shock. Now I feel that I don't want any more because the same thing might happen again. Another disappointment of going dress (a sheath from last year) through everything I did and then ending up with nothing but a broken heart would be too much to stand. What would you do if you were me?

BROKEN-HEARTED

DEAR UP: I think women should dress to please men. If you changed into last year's sheath, I'd say sack or no sack, he's got you "in the bag."

DEAR ABBY: My niece is getting married in August and she is my sister's only child so they are going all-out on the wedding. My daughter has always been a good cousin to this girl but when it came time to choose bridesmaids she overlooked my daughter. When I asked my sister the reason, she told me that they were having only bridesmaids "Why didn't you ask ME to do it, with long hair in the bridal party?" We have five kids, have been happily married for 13 years, and I am crazy about the slob.

WORKED TO DEATH

DEAR WORKED: If you are happily married and are "crazy about the slob," my advice to you is: "Never change a winning pitcher."

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend is very jealous but my husband is not. My husband and I had a fight and I couldn't stand his silent treatment so I went to my boyfriend's. I had a fight with my boyfriend and told him I was going to move in with my sister. But I went back to my husband. My boyfriend found out and he is very mad at me. How can I get him back?

ESTELLE

DEAR ESTELLE: Back? I think you are lucky to be rid of each other. I suggest you stick to your own husband and respect your promise to forsake all others.

CONFIDENTIAL to Baby Doll

If your legs are lovely and you like short skirts, don't wear them any longer!

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, April 30, 1958
MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—Mixed vibrations — with the Moon, Uranus and Neptune favorable but other planets, like our Stars, less propitious. However, this can be a profitable period if you manage astutely. Carefully.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)—The position of Venus suggests that you keep emotions under control, be patient, considerate of others. Some folks may be irritable as you be on safe side. Do your work as well as you usually do and don't worry.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)—This day may not be entirely favorable for written matters but it is stimulating for new unusual ideas, promotion, advertising, also for confidential work. Travel by sea can prove beneficial.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer)—A favorable day for personal affairs, occupational duties, adding new twists to routine matters (to give them more value, saleable qualities). You have the "JULY" sign in many ways; use it right.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo)—You will have to go carefully, wisely this day. Activities and private affairs, also matters pertaining to the sea, beverages, chemicals, oils can progress. But be cautious with tools, vehicles.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo)—Similar to Gemini today. If you don't over-crowd yourself or become too anxious, you can do sufficiently well with your program and have time for some recreation, too.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra)—Your interests are similar to Taurus. Your calm reasoning powers and keen sense of fairness will help greatly to put the day over in a satisfactory way.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 23 (Scorpio)—Consider carefully this day's "DO's" and "DON'TS" and allocate tasks accordingly. This will bring best results, save time and labor and give you the satisfaction of achievement.

NOVEMBER 24 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius)—Mixed vibrations. It is really up to you how best to handle your schedule. Cut hindering red tape and get to the heart of matters quickly.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn)—This day has some planetary restrictions. However, you can have good results if you go slowly enough to plan wisely, then execute those plans meticulously to avoid having to retrace steps.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius)—Auspicious rays from Uranus and Neptune. This can be a profitable day but you must attend to business promptly, have some system and not waste time on unessentials. Have faith and you will attain.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces)—Fine planetary aspects, Neptune and the Moon in excellent position. Be active, interested in community affairs as well as in business.

YOUR BORN TODAY—Taurus is the Head Sign of the Earth Triplet and its people (like you) are strong in character, intelligent, roundly capable and highly talented. You seek learning and absorb knowledge quickly, thoroughly. When at your best, you can be as sweet to any group. Taurus makes wonderful religious teachers, singers and orators. Don't keep troubles too much to yourself, and don't worry. Birthdate: Sir John Lubbock, English banker, archeologist.

South Can Win This Puzler

By OSWALD JACOBY
 Written for NEA Service

Pessimistic Pete won the king of clubs with dummy's ace. He looked over dummy carefully and remarked, "Anyone else would try a couple of finesses and probably wind up making six. However, conditions are bad everywhere and particularly when I have to play the dummy."

West ought to have the queen of clubs for his opening lead and I might as well play safe against the bad breaks that haunt me.

Pete's pessimism was justified. Let's see if you can figure out how Pete played the hand to make at least four odd against any combination of cards that included the queen of clubs in the West hand.

All Pete did was to draw trumps and then play the king and ace of hearts. Now he led dummy's jack of clubs and when East played low Pete discarded his low heart and West was in the lead.

The way the cards actually lay the best West could do was to lead a heart. This knocked out East's queen and Pete ruffed high. Now Pete went over to dummy with a low trump and discarded one diamond on the jack of hearts. He still had to lose two diamond tricks but had made his game.

If West had played a diamond or a club Pete would have wound up making an overtrick. Furthermore, you can change the East and West cards around any way you like and as long as West keeps that queen of clubs Pete is sure to make his contract.

Airport Planning To Build Runway For Light Planes

BALTIMORE (AP)—Friendship International Airport may put in a new runway especially for light planes.

The Airport Board yesterday authorized the City's Department of Aviation to hire an engineering firm to draw up preliminary plans for the runway.

Department Director John O. Colonna said the new runway would be needed in the future to take care of smaller aircraft without interrupting commercial flights.

As he envisions it, Colonna said a runway of 3,000 to 4,000 feet should be adequate, located some distance from present and proposed commercial runways.

Could Insure Peace Children Should Learn Two Other Languages

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Today's children could insure the future peace of the world—if each one learned to speak at least two languages besides his native tongue.

So says Joy Grimm, who foresees in the immediate future American families commuting across oceans as casually as they now drive to grandma's house for the weekend.

"I think the most important thing in the education of American children should be languages," says Joy, one of the world's most enthusiastic and experienced travelers.

As the wife of hotelman Peter Grimm, she is likely to give a cocktail party one afternoon in Caracas, entertain at dinner the next night in Bogota and plan a weekend party in Curacao. She speaks French fluently, Spanish understandably, and is willing to take a fling at Portuguese and Italian if necessary.

But she says: "If I had realized the kind of life I was going to lead, I'd have studied languages like mad in school. As it is I've had to pick up most of them as I went along. But my husband speaks seven languages, and he can make friends all over the world, in any country he happens to be."

"I always feel so apologetic when I am in a country where I don't speak the language. And when I find that even the school-children probably speak perfect English, I feel there must be something lacking in our American method of teaching."

Mrs. Grimm, a native of Plainfield, N. J., worked as a resident buyer in New York, a bridal consultant in Detroit and a fashion arbiter for a New York dress manufacturer before her marriage. Her husband, a tall handsome Hungarian, owns 14 hotels in Latin and South America.

Job Security Unit Building Meets Delay

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Department of Employment Security says there is going to be a four-month delay in completion of its new six-million-dollar headquarters building.

Construction of the building will take an estimated 15 months and Department Director Robert B. Kimble said construction cannot even start until two legal hurdles are cleared. He announced a new target date of October, 1959, for completion.

The technicalities are transfer of the land's title to the state by Baltimore's Urban Renewal and Housing Agency, and passage by city council of closing a street which crosses the site.

Teamsters Will Act On Offer

C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Local 453, Teamsters Union, said members of the organization in the Bedford area will meet Sunday at 4 p. m. to act on a contract offer.

The union, he said, will meet Thursday with the companies employing some 800 drivers and 150 garage workers.

The proposals made by the company, he added, will be placed before the workers for acceptance or rejection.

The present contract covering the workers is due to expire June 1.

Owner Would Help Thieves Open Safe

SALISBURY (AP)—If he had known they were coming, Gorman Hastings wouldn't have baked a cake, but he sure would have been happy to give those thieves a hand with cracking open his safe.

The trouble is they didn't get it open yesterday even though they turned it upside down and whacked away at the bottom. But if they had sought Hastings' advice he could have told them they'd have a hard time because ever since he lost the combination several months ago, he's been trying every which way to get the thing open himself.

It doesn't have a penny in it, but Hastings would like to get some papers out of it.

Boy Loses Hand While Hiding Beneath Train

CLEVELAND (AP)—An 8-year-old boy, Joseph Kusmierczyk, hid under a freight car to escape when a group of bullies chased him. A locomotive pushed the car, the boy's hand was mangled, police said. At St. Alexis' Hospital, spokesmen said the boy's hand would have to be amputated at the wrist.

RESIGNS ART POST—Daniel Catton Rich, above, who has been involved in a controversy over showing Winston Churchill's paintings, resigned yesterday as director of the Art Institute at Chicago. He said his quitting had nothing to do with the controversy. He will become director of the Worcester, Mass., Art Museum. (AP Photolox)
